GOP Weighs Effects Of 'Stassen' Telegram

Alcorn Seems Choice As Hall's Successor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans maneuvering toward the choice of a new national chairman weighed today the effects of a telegram which later was branded as "fraudulent."

H. Meade Alcorn Jr., Connecticut national committeeman, appeared still to have the inside track to succeed Leonard W. Hall Feb. 1, but the name of former Sen. Harry Darby of Kansas was entered in the speculation by some who prefer a new chairman from the West or Midwest.

Several others also have been mentioned, among them New York State GOP Chairman L. Judson Morhouse and Presidential Asst. Howard Pyle, a former governor of Arizona.

Harold E. Stassen described as "false and fraudulent" Thursday a telegram purportedly sent by him to 40 or 50 GOP National Committee members say. "The time has come for liberals to take a stand." But not all those to whom it went are considered in the party's liberal wing.

The telegram urged support of Alcorn for the post, but could have had the opposite effect by stirring antagonisms within the party.

Two supporters of Alcorn, Senators Bush and Purtell of Connecticut, contended today the net effect of the telegram and its repudiation could help the Connecticut man's candidacy.

Sen. Thye (R-Minn.) said Alcorn "is in high esteem among the Republicans around the nation," but added he isn't certain whether the telegram incident would help or hurt his chances for the post.

The GOP National Committee meets Saturday to start picking its new chairman. Hall, who is resigning, has said he will name then a seven-member committee to survey the situation and confer with President Eisenhower, probably Tuesday. The full committee will meet again Tuesday to pick a chairman.

What effect, if any, the telegram incident may have appeared uncertain. Sent from Stamford, Conn., the message said, "Let's keep the future of the party and country safe from the Nixons and Knowlands." It added: "Let's elect Meade Alcorn chairman and really clean up the mess."

Stassen, who as Eisenhower's disarmament aide was in New York City for a United Nations meeting, quickly denied authorship, saying:

"I have sent no telegram, I have authorized no telegram. This is a false and fraudulent telegram and I am starting an immediate investigation to find out who is responsible for putting my name on it."

Western Union officials at Stamford confirmed the sending of the messages by two men late Wednesday night.

Dag To Engineer Israel Withdrawal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A new mandate for U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld to engineer the tenuous job of getting Israel's remaining troops out of Egypt shaped up today in the General Assembly.

The Arab states, Russia, the United States and Israel herself all appeared agreed on this main goal—with variations.

There seemed little doubt the Assembly would give solid approval to an African-Asian resolution calling on Hammarskjöld to report completion of Israeli withdrawal within five days.

Support Resolution
U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. announced support of the 24-nation resolution but went a step further. He recommended that U.N. Emergency Force units move in at once to fill the breach left by Israeli withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and the strategic Sharm el Sheikh area, commanding the Gulf of Aqaba waterway to southern Israel.

He voiced hope Hammarskjöld would come up soon with a plan for deploying the emergency force along the Egyptian-Israeli line and in the Sharm el Sheikh area.

Russia's V. V. Kuznetsov also supported the withdrawal resolution after accusing Israel of indicating she intends to stay in both Gaza and the Aqaba Gulf keypoint. He also charged the Eisenhower Middle East doctrine was being used as a mask to cover up "imperialistic" American designs in that area.

Conditions Are Cited
Israel told the Assembly she would pull her troops out of the Gaza Strip and Sharm el Sheikh. But her foreign minister, Mrs. Golda Meir, laid down conditions that some diplomats feared would be difficult to meet.

A takeover by U.N. Emergency Force units in those vital areas would not be enough, she declared. She added that Israel also wants assurances that shipping will be protected in the Aqaba Gulf, from which Egyptian guns barred Israeli shipping until the Sinai invasion.

Parties Plan For Primary

Hunston Heads GOP, Steffel the Democrats

Both the Republican and Democratic parties held pre-primary caucuses here Thursday night, discussing plans and lining up candidates for the May 7 municipal primaries.

Fifty precinct workers and other interested persons attended the GOP meeting held in the Public Library assembly room. Atty. W. Jay Hunston, vice chairman, was named to replace Daniel Dunbar, chairman, who resigned. Dunbar has accepted employment in Columbus, where he will move in the near future.

Hunston said, "It will be a pleasure to work with this group as chairman. We will have primary contests in May, but that is healthy for a political party. The important thing is that we will have a full slate of candidates, each working toward a Republican victory in November, win or lose in May."

Each candidate will make his own announcement of candidacy, Hunston indicated. Announcements already made are: Harold D. Smith for mayor; James Primm Jr., solicitor; and Lee Gopp for second ward councilman.

The meeting of the Democratic party was held at Howard Studios for the purpose of discussing candidates for the May primaries.

Chairman William Steffel presided with 40 persons in attendance. A financial statement was presented by Paul Howard, secretary.

Persons interested in becoming candidates for city offices, together with those interested in helping to elect city officials, are urged to attend the Democrats' Jan. 23 meeting at the studio.

Mother Tells How 4 Children Died In Fire

WAREHAM, Mass. (AP)—A grieving mother related today how four of her five children perished shortly before midnight last night in a fire that destroyed their five-room home.

The mother, Mrs. Mary Smith, 36, and her daughter Beulah, 14, escaped from the house seconds before it was engulfed by flames. Dead are: Annette, 8 months old; Chester, 3; Phyllis, 10, and Kenneth, 13.

The father, Jack Smith, 60, was admitted to Taunton State Hospital three weeks ago after a breakdown. He was told of his loss later.

Mrs. Smith said she was awakened by the smell of smoke coming from the kitchen. She found the clothes she had washed and hung over the kitchen oil range were ablaze.

She said she got a pan of water from the sink and threw it on the fire, but the blaze had made too much headway and it spread rapidly.

The mother said she called to Kenneth and Phyllis, asleep upstairs, and then ran into her own room where Beulah and Annette were asleep.

After arousing Beulah, the mother picked up the baby and ran for the door. Just before reaching safety the baby slipped from her grasp and fell to the floor, where she died in the flames.

Mrs. Smith said she heard Kenneth answering her call from upstairs, saying he couldn't get all the way down the stairs because of the fire.

He and his sister Phyllis were found dead near a window, only inches from escape. The fourth child, Chester, 3, was found dead in his bed on the first floor.

Top Teamsters Official Called For Questioning

Senate Group Wants Explanation Of Wire Tapping Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators called in a top official of the giant Teamsters Union today to learn whether the union is encouraging witnesses to "hide and conceal facts" about alleged labor racketeering.

Einar Mohn, executive vice president of the 1½-million member union, the nation's largest, was given advance notice that the Senate Investigations Subcommittee wants an explanation of telegrams which the committee said Mohn sent to other union officials in behalf of teamsters' general president Dave Beck.

Fishing Expedition
The telegrams said the committee's hunt for labor racketeers was a "fishing expedition." They urged teamsters officials to challenge authority before giving testimony or producing union records.

Beck has been visiting abroad. Mohn appeared briefly before the subcommittee Thursday but asked to be excused from questioning about the telegrams until he could return with a lawyer.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) ordered Mohn to return this morning prepared to say "whether it is to be your policy that people are to be encouraged to come here and take the fifth amendment to hide and conceal facts about illegal diversion of union funds for private gain."

Fearing For Safety
Highlighting testimony in the subcommittee's first day of open hearing Thursday was the assertion of a stenographer that she feared for her safety.

Mrs. Geraldine Taylor of Bayonne, N. J., former office worker for local 227 of the Allied Industrial Workers of America, said she was afraid "something might happen" if she told all she knew about the local.

She said she was particularly fearful of possible reprisal over being questioned about bad feeling she had heard around the local union toward labor writer Victor Riesel, who was blinded last year by acid thrown in his face.

Mrs. Taylor said she heard uncomplimentary remarks made about Riesel. "They didn't like the idea he was writing things against labor unions and stuff like that," she said.

Doctor Outlines Heart Disease Detection Method

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A possible method of detecting heart disease before a patient is stricken with an attack was outlined today by a Dayton physician. The method involves a new way of evaluating five standard physical tests.

Dr. G. Douglas Talbott of Dayton described the system in a paper read before the Ohio regional meeting of the American College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Dr. Talbott said the method was developed over a period of three years but said that it was still "in the preliminary and experimental stages."

"It is not to be taken as the final word on coronary (heart) cases," he added. The new diagnostic method uses five standard physical tests which are evaluated percentage-wise into what Dr. Talbott calls a "coronary profile." These are: A determination of the amount of fat in the blood, cardiographs (electrical tracings of the heart action) both at rest and under stress, an examination of the blood vessels at the back of the eyes and in the lower extremities, X-ray examination of the heart and of the large blood vessels and a study of the medical history of the patient. A high fat count and constricted blood vessels at the back of the eyes are considered danger signals.

On the percentage evaluation of the results, Dr. Talbott allows 45 per cent for the cardiograph and 5 per cent for both the cardiographs and blood vessel study, 10 per cent for the X-ray examination and 5 per cent for the case history.

Letting a healthy heart represent 100 per cent, Dr. Talbott then places the patient in one of three zones: 85-100 per cent, green (safe) zone; 75-85 per cent, yellow (caution) zone, and below 75 per cent, red (danger) zone. Dr. Talbott calls these "zones of predictability" for a heart attack.

Chief advantage to the new system according to Dr. Talbott are that it can be used by general practitioners who might not have access to special equipment. The

Elmer Lease Of Teegarden Rd. Is Victim

Had Been To Nearby Farmer's Home To Repair TV Set

The Salem district's first traffic fatality of the new year was recorded Thursday night when Elmer D. Lease, 33, of the Teegarden Road was struck and killed by an automobile walking along the Teegarden Road, four miles south of Salem.

State highway patrolmen said Lease, who was walking home from a nearby farm where he had repaired the neighbor's television set, was hit by a car driven by Dennis Flanagan, 18, of RD 2, Salem, at 12:30 a.m.

Coroner E. R. Sturgis said Lease apparently was walking near the center of the road due to the snow along the berms of the highway. He was walking east and Flanagan's car was traveling west, state patrolmen said.

The impact hurled the victim onto the car and carried down the road before the driver could come to a stop, the officers said. The patrol is still investigating the accident.

Lease was pronounced dead at Salem City Hospital of a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Although the fatality was the first in this district, the death was the third in Columbiana County since Jan. 1 resulting from traffic mishaps. A Midland, Pa., man and his three-year old daughter were killed near East Liverpool Wednesday.

Unhurt In Rt. 14 Crash

Two Salem men escaped injury after they were involved in a three-car collision on Rt. 14, one-half mile east of Salem at 3:45 p.m. yesterday.

A car driven by Glenn Zimmerman, 44, of 174 W. Pershing St., was stopped for repairs when another auto operated by Sister Mary Aquinas, 43, of Mary Knoll, N.Y., was forced to slow down and stop because of Zimmerman's auto. Patrolmen said that a third car, driven by Harold Daugherty, 50, of 1108 Perry St., then struck the rear of the nun's car, forcing it into Zimmerman's halted vehicle.

Daugherty was cited for failing to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.

Grand Jury Hears 'Marie' On Kidnaping

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Marie McDonald, emerging teary-eyed from a grand jury hearing, blamed discrepancies in her kidnap stories on sedatives and a state of shock.

She repeated for news men Thursday a little of what she said she told the Los Angeles County grand jury investigating the case:

"I was in a state of shock when I made the statement in Indio," she said, "and I never had a chance to correct it." She said she had previously been given sedatives.

Marie did not say what the discrepancies were.

It was at a hospital in Indio, a small desert city 150 miles from Los Angeles, that the blonde actress first told her story of being abducted from her home by two swarthy men.

Later she re-enacted her story of the kidnaping at her Encino home as police cameras filmed the scene. She said that the jurors asked her about details of the first version. They were "very kind," she said, adding:

"I'm glad to clear up these so-called glaring discrepancies in my statement taken in Indio."

The jurors took evidence for almost nine hours and then adjourned without action until 10 a.m. Tuesday, when they will resume deliberations on possible indictments.

Before she went before the jury for a three-hour appearance, Marie told newsmen that "it's my prayer that it will issue John Doe indictments against the two men" she accuses of kidnaping her.

But grand jury members said, unofficially, that after receiving instructions from a district attorney's representative the jury was unable to agree on an indictment.

The case was handed to the jury when the Police Department announced that it was unable to uncover evidence to prove or disprove Marie's story.

After she left the jury room Miss McDonald, "The Body" of film publicity fame, embraced her recent escort, British actor

During last week-end he came home with two broken legs, a bullet wound in his head and pneumonia. Butch is recovering and the hospital says Andrew can take him home pretty soon.

Michael Wilding. Then she talked privately with her attorney Jerry Giesler.

Wilding appeared briefly before the jury, as did movie columnist Harrison Carroll and Marie's agent, Harold Plant.

After the actress disappeared Jan. 3 Wilding, Carroll and Plant received phone calls from her. She later said she made the calls from a house somewhere in the Los Angeles area where she was kept prisoner by her abductors.

Prize-Winning Novel Is Banned

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit police censorship on books—previously confined to the inexpensive paperback editions—has been extended to the regular clothbound editions for the first time with the banning of John O'Hara's prize-winning novel "Ten North Fredrick."

The ban was announced personally by Police Commissioner Edward S. Piggins. It applies to both the paperback and hard back editions and to public libraries.

In announcing the ban Thursday, Piggins said: "This is not a book I would want my sons to read."

Inspector Melville E. Bullach, head of the 11-man police censor bureau, last week ordered the paperback edition of the novel withdrawn from sale. He said the novel contained "obscene passages."

Piggins said he ordered all copies of the book banned "in order to be consistent."

In New York City, Random House, which published the book, said it would fight the ban.

O'Hara, in Williamsburg, Va., questioned whether Piggins was competent to determine what is "obscene."

The book, which chronicles the life of the scion of a wealthy Pennsylvania family who fails to realize his political ambitions, originally was published in November 1955. It was given the National Book Award in fiction by a committee of the nation's top writers.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

It may be that you prefer real estate or the stock market, but a lot of manicured mobsters have all their money tied up in cash, and this is tax-exempt cash, at that. When they run out of pocket money — and deep are those pockets — they merely dip into those union welfare and pension funds they happen to control.

There is no federal law against embezzling welfare and pension funds, not even if you take a million dollars. And they have taken a million — at one clip, too.

There are state laws, but you seldom hear state officials raise their voices above a whimper across the land. But now, along comes a Senate racket busting subcommittee led by whip-smith Robert Kennedy. In the past few days it has been asking treasury department tax experts for advice.

ALL THIS HAS BEEN going on behind those massive closed doors in the Senate building, but it's a good guess that the committee wants to know just what treasury laws have been violated by the muscle men who steal tax-exempt funds.

Union treasuries and welfare and pension billions are tax exempt. But shouldn't the boys with the adhesive fingers pay tax on the folding money they pick up? If these men can't be punished by the federal government for stealing from welfare and pension funds, why aren't they being juggled for failure to pay income taxes on the money they are spending for sundry items such as diamonds, bon voyages, automobiles, homes, expenses and more expenses.

These characters may be petty, but there's nothing reminiscent of petty cash in their take.

The committee, which is part of the Senate Government Operations Committee has been calling on the secretary of labor and the head of the National Labor Relations Board for some data we newsmen have been trying to peer at for years. These are the financial statements of thousands of labor leaders.

THE TAFT-HARTLEY law says that every union official earning, or taking, more than $5,000 a year in salary or other benefits from the union, must file a financial statement with the labor department. Otherwise he and his union can't use the facilities of the NLRB — which means, for the most part, that the union would be wiped out by some other union always on the prowl for something to satisfy its imperialist impulses.

AMISH FUNERAL PROCESSION. — Traditional square buggies pulled by horses move slowly over a country road near Pottstown, Pa., when nearly 100 of the wagons carried mourners to the grave of Mrs. Malinda Stoltzfus, 89-year-old Amish resident of nearby Honeybrook, Pa. More than 300 mourners attended the funeral, all attired in the "plain" dress of the Amish. The woman, who left 343 immediate survivors, was a descendant of one of the first Amish families in the United States.

In the past few days the Kennedy committee has been asking these government officials just what does happen after the thousands of financial statements are filed.

Have these statements been checked for accuracy? The law says that the five grand can be made up of any type of income or service. This can mean autos, gasoline, beer or bagels. Sen. Kennedy and his colleagues want to know if the labor department or the NLRB has been checking these. If not, why not? If so, what happens if the statements are inaccurate?

There's a heavy fine for lying. Has anyone ever been punished for merely disdainfully dumping untrue statements into a government file?

KENNEDY IS NOT idly curious. This is the most skillfully thought-out campaign against the labor rackets in years. If the treasury department rules that there have been tax violations, Kennedy's committee proves that there has been interference with government operations — and that is his field.

If the labor department and the NLRB show that there have been no checks on the balances drawn from union funds, no demurring on receipt of obviously inaccurate statements, this, too, reveals sputtering in the government operations machine — and this, too, is Kennedy's field.

Once this is quietly established, the sub-committee of the parent Committee on Government Operations then will begin public hearings on muscle-mulching of uncounted millions from union funds and treasuries.

THE BATTLE PLANS having been drawn up, the curtain will actually go up sometime in March. This committee isn't talking much now, but a little snooping shows that they have some startling drama for the 1957 season. Kennedy's probes have run into one union which ran a vice ring. Another terrorized little businessmen from coast-to-coast. A third looted welfare funds for hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The committee will make the point that these are unions run by mobsters and not legitimate union chiefs, of whom there are tens of thousands. Labor's house just wasn't cleaned fast enough, and a lot of the neighbors may come away with the wrong impression of all labor. But lots of people have been pointing this out for years.

The Hall Syndicate

Prime Minister Sidney G. Holland of New Zealand says that he is an eloquent speaker because he once sold plows to farmers. The farmers' only answer to his eloquent sales talks would be a simple "yes" or "no."

If it means there will eventually be a clearcut American policy in the Middle East, Sa'ad, will welcome the statement. He feels the absence of a common Western policy in the Middle East permitted Communist infiltration. The Communists made such strides that the Arab nations, recognizing the danger, outlawed the party and jailed Red leaders.

But Sa'ad seems to think the Eisenhower statement misses the point. He wants desperately to have the United States spell out in detail just what it considers its interests and responsibilities.

For Sa'ad and many like him, the President laid too much stress on military action and showed too little inclination to face up to the facts of life.

Both Arabs and Israelis have indicated that above all else they need a period of quiet — freedom from the interminable tension. Only if this can be achieved, they say, can there be any attempt to attack the real roots of the danger.

The danger is this:

Not a single Arab state in the Middle East can offer its people a firm promise of security. Not an Arab state in the area — possibly excepting Lebanon — can lay claim to any stability.

in. This means more than military defense. It means defense through economic security.

Most of these leaders agree there is a Russian danger. It can be checked, they insist, not by Western domination but only by cooperation.

"Make us sufficiently strong to defend our own internal fronts and we will call on you if necessary to defend our frontiers," they are telling the United States.

Many thoughtful Arab leaders are seeking a way out of the area's pressing troubles. Frequently the suggestion is heard that a new league of Arab states, under United Nations auspices and with a fund sponsored by the United States, make an exhaustive study of the resources and how they could be used to develop the area.

If such a program should get under way with American technical help, it might go a long way toward providing an effective weapon against the sort of Communist penetration which cannot be fought off with guns.

Industrial Gas Supplies To Be Restored Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gas supplies for industrial purposes were to be restored today, the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. said. The company Thursday cut off part of its gas supply to industrial customers in the Toledo area.

A company spokesman said at that time several large industries were receiving no gas for heating purposes and some were getting only 90 per cent of their normal supply for industrial processes.

An explosion at the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline's Liberal, Kan., pumping station forced the curtailment. Panhandle supplies Ohio Fuel Gas with about 25 per cent of its gas.

Only industries required by law to have emergency standby supplies were cut off from heating gas, the gas company said.

It's Your Money

The trickiest thing about the federal budget is its gargantuan size. But hard as it is to grasp the idea of $71.8 billion, it's still your money.

You must earn it, and you will get the benefit of spending it. That is the next trickiest thing about the budget — the fact it now represents a process of keeping wealth in motion by government decree.

Most of its spending is not absolutely necessary. The necessary part is limited to fundamentals like paying for Congress, the Supreme Court and the White House, plus national defense. That is what the budget used to be when it amounted to only a few dollars a year per person.

Today, the spending is relatively desirable, however — and that takes off the lid. Taking off the lid by adding what is relatively desirable to what is absolutely necessary is the great secret of the welfare state.

The United States now is a welfare state. It has added the welfare of a large part of the world to its own welfare, and that helped to take off the lid, too.

The idea of a government that spends money to keep it in motion — a welfare state — is to accelerate the motion. It spends more and more to stay where it is—or was.

The more it spends, the more it collects, because taxes are levied on the motion of money. The more it collects, the more it can spend. Unlike an individual, it does not aim to pay off its indebtedness but only to maintain its credit by paying the service charge on its debt.

It does not want to reduce either its spending rate or its taxing rate. Its sole aim is to keep them in approximate balance, with a little on the plus side if possible.

These are the realities of federal budgeting. They are not the realities that used to exist, which makes them hard to understand and hard to agree with. But they exist now, and they dictate budget policy, regardless of party politics.

Franklin D. Roosevelt ran for election in 1932 on a platform of budget-cutting; he charged that Herbert Hoover had turned into a financial wild man with a budget of nearly $2 billion. That was a long time ago. The budget is 36 times that much today, and no one is arguing about it any more. Not a word was said on either side in the 1956 presidential campaign about cutting the budget, but millions of words were said about wonderful things the federal government was prepared to do with your money in the near and distant future.

The wonderful things add up to $71.8 billion, with further additions still to be made by Congress.

As Old As You Feel

A novel means of determining a person's physiological "retirement age" is proposed by a Los Angeles doctor who foresees a future in which 20 per cent of the population may be supporting the other 80 per cent, unless remedial steps are taken soon.

The doctor, James V. Maloney, assistant professor of surgery at the University of California at Los Angeles, warns that such a prospect is conceivable as long as we insist on compulsory retirement.

Dr. Maloney noted improvements in medicine that are increasing the life span annually and predicts that soon a large segment of the population will be beyond today's retirement age. He cited the fact the average age of patients in most surgical wards in the United States today is over 70.

In arriving at his 20-80 ratio, Dr. Maloney included the "very young" with the over-retirement age population. As a measure to correct the current trend, Dr. Maloney suggests that instead of using chronological age, medical tests be used to determine the "physical age" of each individual, to determine when retirement should come.

It is an accepted theory that the aging process occurs at different rates in different individuals. While some persons should be retired at 50, others are capable of productive work at 70 and older.

The Cold Strengthens

Our grandpas and their grandpas used to say about January that "as the day lengthens the cold strengthens."

We can say it, too. Our grandchildren and their grandchildren can quote us.

We have the frostbite to prove it. Also the buildings burned by defects in overworked heating systems, the crackling of zero-hardened snow, the deep-down frost and the snarled-up transportation to qualify us as experts on January.

It is comfortable to know that we have not been slighted on weather; that we have endured floods as high, winds as violent and cold as strong as anyone and yet survived.

Take it from us, posterity—as the day lengthens the cold strengthens. In mid-January, 1957, with the day lengthened past nine and a quarter hours the cold was strong enough to make an old-fashioned winter seem like the kind when the temperature sometimes rose above freezing.

Tax Cut In '58?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Many Factors Hinge On Future Action

There will be a tax cut in a year or so only if the members of Congress, working with the executive departments, prepare for it in advance — and the preparations will take at least 12 months. This unusual way of laying before the American people the problem that confronts them if they want a reduction in taxes is largely the result of the cumbersome way the federal government operates. The budget just submitted by the President is the one that takes effect next July 1 and represents many commitments of an emergency nature already in process.

If a tax cut is to be achieved, it will be in the year 1958 when the expenses in the next budget have already been sufficiently reduced to make way for the tax changes and when presumably some idea has been gained of how much the tax collections for 1957 — a good year from an economic standpoint — will increase.

What must be fully recognized, if there is to be a tax cut, is the need for removing politics from the spending program. The pendulum has swung so far in the direction of federal aid for all sorts of projects that it will not be possible to swing it the other way without the support of an informed public opinion.

Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, the man who is basically responsible for President Eisenhower's fiscal policies, said some things in his press conference Wednesday with newsmen which are as important as the passages the President transmitted in his budget message to Congress.

The secretary made a realistic statement that should be noted carefully because it contains the key to the whole economic future of the United States. He said:

"THE BILLIONS of dollars spent annually by the government for military equipment and manpower go into the spending stream but are not matched by an increase in the production of peacetime goods, so that heavy pressure is put on the price of goods which all the people must buy.

"This imbalance makes it more difficult to keep the cost of living within bounds. Monetary measures alone may not be sufficient for this task unless the federal government makes reductions in its manpower and in its purchases which will help to increase the production of additional peacetime goods and so help to hold down prices.

"Moreover, the funds so released will then be available to build up the capital needed to help create the new jobs, to build the new schools and the countless other improvements required by this growing country of ours."

What this means is that there is a kind of military economy dominant today. It is based on a huge expenditure for nonproductive purposes.

On international issues, America has no choice, however. It must, as Mr. Humphrey says, "remain both militarily and economically strong."

So the real question is this: When such a pressure of circumstances over which this country does not have control is being applied, should there not be a corresponding obligation to do away with the luxuries or at least to postpone them till such time as the nation can afford them?

MR. EISENHOWER in his recent "state-of-the-union" message, referred to "self-discipline" and the need for restraint by the leaders of business and of organized labor in handling prices and wages.

Secretary Humphrey spells out some additional obligations. He says the public must cooperate in "limiting its demands upon the federal government for only essential federal functions." He calls for pruning of federal government expenses all along the line and says plainly that there must be "actual and substantial reductions through improved efficiency."

If the world could be made more peaceful and armaments could be reduced, it would be an ideal situation. For the money thus released would go into productive expenditure and permanent jobs.

This cannot be insured, however, because of the uncertainty in the world situation. Hence, the alternative is to find ways and means of restraining and deferring expenditures — spreading them over a longer period of time.

The spending spree has to come to an end and a bigger surplus obtained before tax reduction can be made. The tax cut must be used as a stimulus to the economy so as to take up the slack in unemployment arising from the transition period when manpower is reduced in armament industries and labor is changed over to productive peacetime industries.

When You're Buying a Big Insurance Policy

MORRIS

Reds Infiltrate Schools

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

The Boards of Education of the City of New York are having a difficult time keeping Communists out of the school system no matter how much harm the Communists may do to the students and to the country.

In the instance of the Board of Higher Education, the courts have intervened to give protection and comfort to the Communists; in the instance of the Board of Education, James E. Allen, Jr., commissioner of education of the State of New York, has intervened on grounds that seem, at best, to be dubious.

The question hinges on providing information about others. Communists call a person who provides such information an informer which has become a dirty word. The FBI refers to them as informants which cleans it up somewhat.

THE FACT of the matter is that information on any subject must come from those who know; it cannot be picked out of the air. Those who have the most valuable information about Communists are Communists, some of whom leave the party and are willing to tell all; others say that they have left the party but are unwilling to tell anything.

In recent years, some who have professed Marxist materialism which is by rule, atheistic, insist that they may not give information about others because their religious beliefs forbid it. But when did they acquire such religious beliefs?

Commissioner Allen, speaking for the New York State Education Department, said:

"In my judgment (the New York City Board) is most optimistic if it believes that a jury will convict on the flimsy evidence of informers. It is, of course, perhaps true that the board, when the name is known, might be able to obtain corroborating evidence.

"It is also possible for the board to call the teacher in and ask whether he or she is a Communist. The argument that the board needs someone to name names is of no value here because the board in any event can call in any teacher, or for that matter, all teachers, and ask if they are Communists . . ."

HOW NAIVE can one be? In 1920 it might have been assumed that such a question could be asked with the expectation of a truthful answer. If a Communist answered truthfully, he would probably be expelled from the party.

Dr. Allen apparently issues obiter dicta without reading the record which abounds with perjury and contempt charges and convictions.

The most valuable information any agency has received on the subject of Communists and Communism has come from so-called informers. Nevertheless, Dr. Allen says "the use of an informer is of little value."

Peter Campbell Brown, corporation counsel of New York City, in a statement to the court on this subject, said:

"For example, your Honor, the convictions of Hiss, the convictions of the Rosenbergs and of the 11 top echelon Communists in the lengthy trial at Foley Square is irrefutable proof that the testimony of former members of the Communist party is not regarded as flimsy, the word of the commissioner, but instead and contrary to that, your Honor, did per-suaude juries to convict and courts to uphold these convictions."

Further, Mr. Brown said: "As I have already indicated, 125 school personnel identified and so identified by former Communists in this kind of inquiry are no longer in the school system of New York City."

"THE DIFFERENCE between identification and mere inquiry, your Honor, to this, I would point out if I may, that the method employed by the board makes available the vital first clue in an investigation that is, the identity of the person who was, in fact, a former Communist."

"The proposal by the commission that this method is unnecessary because the board may call in any persons, deprives the board, your Honor, of this first clue."

The emphasis on the first clue is important because obviously without it, nothing can be known although much can be guessed at. Children come home from school with curious ideas about the inferiority of the United States and one assumes that the child picked up some queer notions from a screw-ball, but it is impossible for a parent to know what a deep impression is being made upon the child's mind by some teacher who ridicules the tradition and folkways of this country.

It is only natural for a child to assume that the teacher knows what he or she is talking about.

Fatter Pocketbooks Ahead

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Fatter pocketbooks for Americans and a pleasant if modest gain in business profits—that is President Eisenhower's prediction for industry and individuals for the months ahead.

The forecast of still better times to come is contained in his budget estimates for the 12 months starting next July 1. Business economists are glad they don't have to guess that far ahead.

In his budget message the President joins the long list of business, labor and financial leaders who have just made their guesses on the outlook—but for a shorter range, mostly. And he goes counter to the fears of some—and to the hesitation of those traders in the stock market whose view of future corporate profits is much less rosy.

The President estimates that individuals will get enough more in wages, salaries, dividends, interest, rents and sale of products to plunk out 2½ billion dollars more in income taxes than they will pay to the U. S. Treasury in the 12 months ending June 30.

He expects the Treasury to collect 600 million dollars more in income taxes levied on increased earnings of corporations.

Individual and corporate income taxes are the main source of the federal government's revenue — and the trickiest thing in the budget to estimate, since they fluctuate with good and bad times. What he proposes to spend in the next fiscal year can be estimated much more closely than what the President expects to get.

His guess on total revenue is a record 73½ billion dollars, and on expenditures 71½ billion.

This is an optimistic picture of the future state of the economy. Wall Street has been cautious of late, figuring that rising costs are tightening the brakes on continuing gains in corporate profits.

While rising wage scales and inflation in general indicates continuing gains in personal income totals, this is dependent upon the general health of industry—shorter work weeks or shutdowns could cancel out the wage scale boosts.

Some indication of what is happening to industry is shown in the report of the Federal Reserve Board on industrial production in 1956. The board figures output in physical volume, not in price changes.

The board's index shows industrial output rose four points in 1956 from the year before. But some observers are stressing not so much the gain as the slowdown in the rate of gain—1955's industrial output had jumped 14 points over that of 1954.

The cautious are also watching the present slower than expected sales of new model autos, the lower than expected new orders for steel and other metals, the decline in the volume of new orders for machinery and tools, and scattered predictions that the record business expansion program may be hitting its peak shortly.

So They Say

As of today, the enemy would still lose a war — which the Soviets understand — because of superior long-range airpower—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther.

In this emotionally charged atmosphere and in the face of threats and overt acts of violence, there is only one logical and effective answer for the present and that is the suspension of bus operations. — Gov. Democracy received another setback in Rhode Island today. — Christopher Del Sesto, Republican candidate for governor, learning that his absentee ballot victory margin had been invalidated by the State Supreme Court.

A Study In Gratitude

An immigrant who landed in America 50 years ago, became an iceman and managed to save $26,000 left most of his estate to New York City in appreciation of the opportunities he found there.

Father Knickerbocker could well paraphrase Eugene O'Neill and say, "The Iceman Cometh Through."

Gennaro Sorrenti, known as "Jimmy the Iceman," worked a half century delivering ice in Brooklyn. It was tough work and all he could save was about $400 a year.

There are thousands of men who amass fortunes in a city without mentioning it in their wills or crediting it with an assist in the box-score. But Jimmy the Iceman, despite the tax cut taken by cities these days, felt grateful.

MAYBE HE WASN'T thinking mainly in terms of work and money but in estimating the debt in terms of the spirit of a city as he found it in the daily scenes of excitement, drama, color, laughter, tears, fun and hope, etc. Possibly he felt he owed something to the city through its privileges, its democracy and its chance to get ahead on his own.

And perhaps, over and above all this, he was moved by the memories of rest in his shirt-sleeves on a tenement fire-escape on a simmering hot night after a tough day's work . . . the view of a skyline . . . the music of the streets below . . . the glow of the skies reminding him of a Sunday trip to Coney . . . the thoughts of an occasional Sabbath afternoon game at Ebbets Field . . . pizza pie picnics in the park . . . life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, even when his feet hurt and his back had begun to ache.

A YOUNG MAN who found some pretty swift fame and fortune in New York paid tribute to big cities in a song "Manhattan Tower."

The best the iceman could do was in a cash remembrance but in his way he, too, saw majestic turrets.

His towers were in congested streets, and back-alleys . . . towers with old-fashioned fire escapes, clotheslines and geranium pots . . . an aroma of many dishes cooked by many hands . . . the shouting of kids at play . . . tunes from an old phonograph . . . alarm clocks too close to dawn . . . a hard day's grind and the blessed comfort of early evening in a home, however modest . . . (And, of course, the thought that for a few hours nobody could yell, "Hey, where's my ice, Jimmy?")

Sorrenti felt he had had a good many "breaks." . . . He loved the town where he got them. He didn't forget.

Perhaps Gennaro Sorrenti all through the years had found comfort in a dream that one day he would no longer be Jimmy, the Iceman, but Mr. Gennaro Sorrenti, president of the Sorrenti Ice Corporation and chairman of the board.

LISTENING TO THE SQUEALS that greet Elvis Presley, we have an itch to understand it . . . To adults he seems no bargain but the young get hysterical over him . . . Once every 10 or 15 years some kid singer comes along with certain qualities that set the bobby soxers frantie, and Elvis is that sort . . . He is no great shakes as a songster, but gets plenty of shakes into his physical contortions . . . The lad is a twitchee . . . He would rather "withe" (get that word w-r-i-t-h-e, Mr.

First Step Toward Return To Stalinism

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Communist party boss Khrushchev could work on a railroad. He's a national-born switchman. But the switch he pulled Thursday night was another example of the emotionalism and confusion, in the Kremlin.

The Soviet brandy and Chinese wine, flowing freely at a big reception, may account for his reference to "God" and a hereafter in Moscow which is supposed to be the citadel of atheism.

But Khrushchev, who last Feb. 25 denounced Stalin as a mass murderer and mental monster, said: "As a Communist fighting for the interest of the working class, Stalin was a model Communist."

He said this was not inconsistent with what he had said last February. And in a sense it wasn't. For in that speech less than a year ago, a speech which shocked the Communist world, Khrushchev had also said:

"In the past Stalin doubtlessly performed great services to the party, to the working class, and to the international workers' movement."

So the real switch in Khrushchev's performance Thursday night was no so much in what he said of Stalin as in his attitude toward Stalin. His February speech was mainly denunciation, with a fragment of praise. Thursday night it was almost all praise, although far briefer.

"In the things that counted, that is the interest of the working class as Stalin did," he said.

Noting later that some of those present might not want to join him in the toasts he proposed to the Chinese Communists, he said, pointing heavenward: "If you do not, it will be counted against you in the final reckoning up there."

The fact that he shifted his attitude toward Stalin is evidence of the impulsive and ill-considered attack he made on the dead leader in 1956 and that now he and his friends in the Kremlin think it necessary to change their tactics.

When Stalin died, those who took over were heirs to a myth: the whole Communist world, inside and outside Russia, had been trained to regard Stalin as the infallible fount of goodness and wisdom.

His heirs, to do their job, needed devotion to themselves. The memory of Stalin stood in their way. That was one good reason for trying to demolish his image. But there was another.

In the new phase of the cold war, with the "spirit of Geneva" still pervading the world, they were anxious to erase the memories of the ferocity and barbarisms of Stalin in order to make communism seem more palatable.

But they did it so suddenly that they didn't take time to prepare Communists inside or outside Russia for this startling reversal.

The result: a series of explosions inside Russia itself, in the satellites, and in the Communist parties around the world.

These events caused Russia more loss of leadership and control of world communism than Stalin had suffered in all the years between the 1920s, when he took command, and 1953 when he died.

Stalin's heirs had to do an about face or, perhaps, face disaster through a continued loss of control. One method, apparently the only one which seems possible, was to reinstitute the iron rigidity of Stalin's day.

What Khrushchev did Thursday night was to try to justify Stalin, a first step toward a return to Stalinism.

The masters of the Kremlin have been credited with coolness and shrewdness and of knowing always where they were going. The events of this past year do not wear out this picture of them.

World Flight By Jets Set To End Today

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The first globe-girdling flight by jet planes was expected to end at this southern California base today.

The Air Force would neither confirm nor deny reports that three B52 intercontinental jet bombers were winging homeward after a record nonstop round-the-world flight. But a spokesman did issue this announcement:

"An event of historical importance will take place at 10:10 a.m. Friday (12:10 p.m. CST) at March AFB, Riverside, Calif."

Officials at Castle AFB, Merced, Calif., the home of the sweeping B52s, were also vague in replying to inquiries. Capt. James J. Brady, Castle information officer, would say only that "all activity" would be concentrated at March because of weather conditions in the Merced area.

First report of the jet flight appeared Thursday night in the Chicago Tribune, which described the exercise as a "demonstration of the long reach of American atomic air power." The Tribune said that by landing time in California, the jet bombers would have been flying "approximately two full days."

Carl CAPEL REAL ESTATE

All of us who have been engaged in the real estate business for a considerable length of time have more than once met someone who was doubtful about the value of the services which we brokers render to the public.

I've even heard people say flatly that no one needs an agent in a real estate deal.

Well, I suppose when you get right down to it, nobody really needs a contractor to build a house, either, for there is no reason why each home-builder couldn't order all the materials he needed, and then do the hiring of the carpenters, bricklayers, plumbers and other tradesmen whose skills were needed.

Yet the vast majority of people who are building a house will go to a contractor. Why? Because he has the contacts, he has the time and ability, and — most important of all, perhaps — he has the know-how, to get the job done with the greatest efficiency, which means a saving of both time and money.

The reliable broker performs a similar sort of service, except that his attention is centered on the selling of the house, rather than the building of it.

Certainly it is possible for any intelligent person to make a satisfactory deal in real estate without the aid of a broker. But isn't such a person trusting to luck, to some extent, if he hasn't the necessary contacts, the time, and the know-how, as well as good business ability?

But don't let today's column throw you. I have no intention of using this space to justify my profession. Next time, we'll discuss the "do's" and "don'ts" of buying a house.

Phone Dispute Still Unsettled

11-Hour Conference Brings No Results

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. today rejected a union suggestion to submit to arbitration the issues prolonging the 189-day-old southern Ohio telephone strike.

And neither the company nor the striking Communications of America (CWA) budged during Thursday's 11-hour negotiating session, a federal mediator reported.

Mediator N. W. Fillo said the meeting produced "no progress." Negotiations between the company and the CWA will resume today in the Seneca hotel here.

Fillo said there were no joint sessions Thursday. Mediators met first with one side and then the other in an attempt to reach an agreement, he said.

In turning down a union proposal to arbitrate the issues, Frank Lennberg, director of industrial relations, said the company's position is that it cannot turn its business over to "outsiders."

He said signing a contract is a matter for the company to decide.

The union suggested arbitration in a letter to interim Gov. John Brown earlier this month. Brown forwarded it to the company.

Some 600 CWA members went on strike against the company last July 15 when a one-year union-company contract expired.

Retention of a union shop clause and 15 other contractual issues are in dispute.

Confederate Vet 109 Years Old Today

DEFUNIAK SPRINGS, Fla. (AP)—His eyes for a pretty girl undimmed by the years, Confederate veteran William A. Lundy observed his 109th birthday today.

Hundreds of his neighbors planned to be on hand to help him celebrate.

Lundy, Florida's only survivor of the War Between the States, will hold court at the Walton High School gymnasium. Fifteen Florida and Alabama radio stations are scheduled to carry a description of the birthday party.

The white-haired Lundy was a member of the Alabama Home Guard during the Civil War. His job was to defend the courthouse at his home town of Elba, Ala.

Two other Confederate veterans survive: John Salling, 110, Slant, Va., and Walter W. Williams, 114, of Franklin, Tex.

Says Stalin Was 'Model Red'

Khrushchev 'Orates' At Chinese Reception

MOSCOW (AP)—Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev, who called Stalin a mass murderer last February, now says the late dictator was a model Communist fighter for the working class.

"Khrushchev made his latest declaration of Stalin at a reception on Stalin at a reception given for Kremlin leaders Thursday night by visiting Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai. It was in keeping with Khrushchev's startling defense of Stalin at a New Year's Eve banquet in the Kremlin.

As the Chinese plied their guests with Soviet brandy and Chinese wine, Khrushchev grabbed a microphone to declare that he is a Communist.

"But some people say you are a Stalinist," Soviet Premier Bulganin interjected.

"I am a Stalinist," Khrushchev asserted, "but I don't separate Stalinism and Stalin from communism. As a Communist fighting for the interest of the working class, Stalin was a model Communist."

"We have criticized Stalin," he continued, "we still criticize him, and if necessary we will do it again. But we do not criticize Stalin as a bad Communist as far as the interests of the working classes are concerned.

"Stalin had his bad points. Lenin saw them before we did and pointed them out. They were borne out. The defects were bad. But in the things that counted, that is the interests of the working class, God grant that every Communist should fight for the interest of the working class as Stalin did."

Loud applause went up from the audience, which in addition to the Soviet leaders included diplomats from countries that have recognized Red China. Western newsmen also attended.

Khrushchev, flailing his arms while his listeners laughed and applauded, continued his defense of Stalin and rejected Stalinism as a term of abuse. Bulganin tried to get him away from the microphone, but he kept speaking. The party boss denounced capitalism, saying its death is as inevitable as the fact a pregnant woman must give birth.

Chou gave the party for the Soviet bigwigs after a flying trip to Hungary and Poland.

Don't Laugh Men; You'll Wear Those Silly Shoes Soon

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The next time your husband or nearest male critic makes fun of your silly shoes, you might tell him that the world's biggest shoe manufacturer says men soon will be wearing buckled shoes, and may even rival women in foot fashions.

The man responsible for this prediction is Walter Maxey Jarman, a Baptist deacon's son from Tennessee, who has made a small Nashville shoe factory into a giant corporation which now turns out most of the country's shoes in all price brackets.

Jarman, a slow-spoken southerner who commutes between New York and Nashville, also is the man who bought Tiffany's.

Over a luncheon table the other day Jarman expounded his ideas on diamonds and shoes.

"We just sort of picked up Tiffany's in a package deal," he drawled. "It came along with a string of women's specialty shops. Interesting piece in diamonds before, but I'm learning quite a bit about them. Funny thing, the women in the family seem to take more interest in the jewelry business than the shoe business."

The "package deal" took place when Jarman's company, General Shoe Corp., recently bought the Hoving Corp., which includes Bonwit-Teller and Tiffany's in New York and six other women's specialty shops in other parts of the country.

Jarman's family consists of a wife, one son in the navy, one married daughter and one daughter still in college. He spends Monday to Thursday every week in New York, but goes home to Nashville every weekend.

About men's shoe fashions of today and tomorrow —

"Well you can laugh if you want, but the hottest thing in men's shoe styles right now is the 'my fair lady' look. David Evans designed a line of men's shoes all in this general feeling, with longer, more pointed toes. One of them is a slip-on style called 'Lancia.'"

"Wouldn't surprise me a bit to see men wearing buckles on their shoes soon. Men like fashion, too, though it takes them longer to admit it. But our founding fathers wore buckled shoes, and nobody could call them sissies."

Forecast Higher Temperatures

Most of Ohio To Get More Snow Today

By The Associated Press

An extended cold spell intrudes adventure into daily routine, Ohioans are learning.

The car won't start.

Water pipes freeze.

The heating system acts up.

Feet get frostbitten while you are waiting for a bus. (It happened to Lois Robinson, 16, of Columbus.)

But for those who do not care for weather-induced changes in routine, the weather bureau today offered a slight ray of hope.

"A slight moderation in temperatures was likely," the bureau suggested, "as temperatures at the source of the cold air become less severe."

The weatherman hurried on to add, however, that most of Ohio can expect snow today. Ashtabula, Lake and Geauga counties were warned to prepare for heavy mounds above zero Thursday night snow squalls.

Generally speaking, temperatures rose Thursday after the coldest night of the year, and remained above zero Thursday night and early today.

Even northeast Ohio readings were above zero — although not much above.

Snow fell in many areas around midnight and after.

The state highway department reported main highways are snow covered and slippery in an area bounded by Youngstown, Canton, Mount Vernon and Woodfield, with the balance of highways slippery in spots. The Ohio Turnpike was reported wet with light snow during the early morning hours.

Cleared Of Holding Deaf Mute In Bondage

MT. CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—A deaf and dumb couple was cleared Thursday of charges of holding another deaf mute in bondage.

Justice Francis A. Castellucci dismissed charges against Robert Lee Merritt, 33, and Mrs. Marguerite Rood, 35, both of suburban St. Clair Shores, Mich. They were accused of holding John LeJeune, 25, of Fremont, Ohio, in involuntary servitude.

Castellucci ruled LeJeune was unable to communicate while he was on the witness stand. The jurist concurred in a prosecutor's motion that the charges be dropped.

The defendants were accused of holding LeJeune in bondage in the Rood home and taking the money he had made peddling sewing packages in the St. Clair Shores area.

Salem Quakers To Meet Sebring Trojans There Saturday

Foe Has Won 2 Of 6 Games

Locals To Be Hosts To Girard Tonight

By MARK MILLER

Salem's Quakers will journey to Sebring Saturday night to play the Sebring Trojans who have won only twice in six encounters.

Tonight Salem entertains Girard, and Sebring travels to Leetonia.

Starting for Sebring will be Bruce Erb, six-foot, three-inch, 165-pound senior, at center and Russel Brogan, six-foot, two-inch, 180-pound senior, and Larry Birkhimer, six-foot, two-inch, 160-pound junior, at the forward posts.

John Smith, five-foot, 10-inch, 160-pound senior, and Jim McAbler, five-foot, 11-inch, 160-pound senior will get the nod at the guard slots.

Jim Stanley, six-foot, one-inch, 160-pound senior, a forward, and John Papadonise, five-foot, 11-inch, 155-pound junior, also should see plenty of action.

Salem will probably use the same line-up that will be seen in tonight's fray against Girard. The starters are Bill Pauline at center, Ted Jackson and Mark Fenton at the forward positions, and Dick Beall and John Stephenson at the guards.

In six games played, the Trojans have tallied 377 points for a 62.8 average per contest. Their opponents have scored 379 points for a 63.1 average per game.

Sebring has beaten Canfield 33-55 and Poland 59-54. They have lost to Canton Lincoln 73-59, Newton Falls in an overtime 64-62, Lisbon 59-54, and Louisville 72-62.

The reserve game will start at 7 p.m.

Salem Junior High Teams Win Games

Salem's Junior High All Stars playing at Lisbon Thursday afternoon defeated the Lisbon Junior High teams, with the seventh grade winning its game 24-4, and the eighth grade coming out on top 33-27.

The Salem seventh grade squad led all the way, with quarter scores of 11-0, 16-0, and 16-2.

Jenson was high scorer for the winners with nine points, and Vickers, tallied three for the losers.

The local eighth grade squad pushed to an early lead in the first half but had to stave off a last half attack by Lisbon. Salem led at the end of the first quarter 14-2, and 25-6 at intermission. At the end of three quarters the score was 33-11.

Dunn, Butcher and Toyok each tallied 11 points for the winners, and Early made 10 points for the losers.

Dark Horse Bradley Leads Conference

By BEN OLAN

The Associated Press

Tabbed as the "dark horse" of its conference early in the season, Bradley is running ahead of the Missouri Valley basketball pack today.

Upsetting its opponents' stalling tactics, Bradley rallied to defeat Houston 81-64 Thursday night to lift its pace-setting conference mark to 5-0. On the year, the 12th-ranked Braves are 12-2.

Midterm examinations have put the college scheduled at a comparative standstill.

The Kansas Jayhawks, top-rated in this week's Associated Press poll, are idle until Feb. 2 when they will attempt to gain revenge for last Monday's 39-37 setback by Iowa State.

North Carolina (No. 2) will stand on its 15-0 record until Feb. 5 when it meets Maryland.

Bradley used a full court press to stop Houston's stalling game. Houston took a 2-0 lead at the start and then held the ball for about two minutes. The Braves went into the press and shot into a 45-28 halftime lead.

Houston lost two starters, Dean Evans and Russ Boone, on personal fouls early in the second half and Bradley upped its advantage to 74-52. Joe Billy McDade, with 17 points, and Gene Morse, with 14, paced the Braves' attack. Both are sophomores.

Elsewhere, Bob Gibson sparked Creighton from behind to hand Drake its sixth straight loss 74-60. St. Peter's (N.J.) whipped Adelphi 94-73 to stretch its winning streak to 17 games over a two-year span.

Englishman, 3 Yanks Pace Golf Tourney

TIJUANA, Mexico. (AP) — Long hitting Harry Weetman of England and three American professionals led the way into the second round of the $15,000 Caliente Open Golf Tournament today.

Weetman, 35, Mike Souchak, the 1956 winner, Julius Boros and a longshot, Len Kennett of Camp Pendleton, Calif. Marine Base, put in strong bids to win some money.

All had four-under par 68 at the Tijuana Country Club's par 36-72 course, and Weetman himself put on quite a show.

He zoomed three strokes over par on the first nine holes but electrified the gallery with a nine-hole course record of 29 coming back.

Starting on the trip in, Weetman with his truly great approach shots, bagged six straight birdies, and a seventh was missed only because the ball hung on the lip of the cup.

MAGLIE OKS CONTRACT

NEW YORK (AP) — Sal Maglie, who gave Brooklyn a healthy shove toward the National League pennant last year, was in the Dodgers' fold today.

The 39-year-old right-hander agreed to terms Thursday at a reported $30,000 salary. Sal won 13 games and lost five after being picked up on waivers from Cleveland in May. Included among his victories was a no-hitter against Philadelphia last Sept. 25.

American tennis officials are smarting under repeated defeats by Australian net stars in major tournaments.

Rennell McMann, association president, said the meeting would place considerable emphasis on development of junior tennis players, particularly those around 18.

"We also may consider the idea of a little league in tennis, similar to those in baseball," he told a newsman.

Braves Seek 2nd Baseman

Left Field Other Milwaukee Sore Spot

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves are in the market for a second baseman who can hit .270 or better and a successful search might make them favorites in the National League race.

Braves General Manager John Quinn discussed the 1957 campaign and Milwaukee trouble spots Thursday night in a talk at the Press Club.

As for the race, Quinn said he saw it as a contest between the Braves, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and possibly St. Louis.

Second base and left field where Danny O'Connell and Bobby Thomson labored, respectively, last year are the trouble spots. If able to rub out either one, or both of the weak positions, the Braves probably could take the field in April a jump ahead of the competition.

In taking up second base, Quinn said "If O'Connell could add 30 points to his batting average I think nothing more could be desired." O'Connell hit .239 in 1956.

Mentioned as possible future Milwaukee second sackers are Gene Baker of the Cubs and Red Schoendienst of the New York Giants.

The only one Quinn would talk about was Baker, and that was only after Chicago's new manager, Bob Scheffing, said Thursday that Baker was definite "trade bait."

Scheffing said he had to let Baker go. Quinn said Milwaukee was interested in the Chicago infielder, but not at the price of a center-fielder. Milwaukee has Bill Bruton in center, but Quinn's remarks obviously indicated he was going to stay there.

Mentioned as possibilities for O'Connell's job were Frank Eprima, Bob Makmus and Ed Charles, in addition to Felix Mantilla, who played short in spots last year. Mantilla has been playing second in Puerto Rico and appeared as though he could handle the assignment.

Left field, Quinn said, would be a wide open race with Thomson, Ed Joyner, Earl Hersh, Chuck Tanner, Jim Pendleton and Wes Covington the candidates.

Cubs' Banks Only Player Not For Sale

CHICAGO (AP) — Shortstop Ernie Banks is the only player on the Chicago Cubs roster not for sale or trade in the club's efforts to trade and build a winning ball team.

That word came from Bob Scheffing, the Cubs' new manager, at the annual winter luncheon Thursday.

The Cubs, who finished in last place in 1956, are prospecting for a center fielder and would like to get either Lee Walls of the Pittsburgh Pirates or Richie Ashburn, the Philadelphia Phillies veteran.

As trading bait they have been holding out second baseman Gene Baker.

Scheffing said Banks would remain at shortstop unless Jerry Kindall, bonus rookie from the University of Minnesota, shows enough skill to play the position.

If Kindall should make it, he indicated Banks would be moved to first or third base.

The new manager said that as of now, Charlie Silvera, formerly of the Yankees, would be his starting catcher.

Veteran Bob Rush, and rookie Joe Drabowsky and Don Kaiser, are the only definite starters on the pitching staff, he said.

DARK 'NOT ON MARKET'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Alvin Dark, veteran shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals may have turned 34 but he is still a hot topic in the baseball trade markets.

"I received three offers for him a month ago," general manager Frank Lane told the downtown Kiwanis Club Thursday.

Lane said the offer came from the New York Giants — the club St. Louis got dark from last year in a four for four trade including Red Schoendienst — the Philadelphia Phils and Cincinnati Redlegs.

But Lane said at the present Dark is "not on the market."

Midway Halts Carli's Streak; Youngstown Kitchens Wins

Last night in Class A competition at the Memorial Building Midway Motors put a halt to Carli Lumber's winning streak of eight straight 71-64 and Youngstown Kitchens edged Jerry's Recreation 53-48.

Midway Motors effectively tied up Carli's big Bob Payer, allowing him only four baskets for eight points. But Eddie Jordan went on a scoring rampage for Carli, scoring 39 points, better than half of his team's total.

Midway took a first-period lead of 18-12 and increased its margin to 29-21 by the intermission.

In the third period Midway made 20 markers while holding their opponents to seven. In the fourth stanza Carli, behind 21 points, began their effort to erase this margin and closed the gap to six points with but one minute left.

'Vault Into Major Leagues'

(Editors: What's in store for those who plan the management of outdoor resources — A triumph of progress and plenty, or defeat on the ultimate political and policy-making level? There are signs of a new national climate, but will changes come too late?

Associated Press Staff Writer Dion Henderson summarizes the prospects of the profession in this fifth and final story on wildlife management in the United States.

Two of the goals will be to solve problems of destructive drainage threatening marshes and wetlands for waterfowl and to initiate a planned program of land acquisition to meet federal and state needs in wildlife management.

The growing demand for opportunities to fish and hunt at a time when those opportunities seem to be diminishing must be met head on," Seaton said.

Some observers have pessimistic predictions for the outcome, even under optimum conditions. But wildlife management is a young science, with towering accomplishments in learning behind it.

Towering accomplishments must lie ahead, as well.

Productivity of the wildlife resource must be doubled within 30 years. It means production of wildlife as a crop — not only on primary wildlife lands, but as a secondary crop on agricultural lands. And this means that some system that can be summed up in dollars and cents must be developed to make the raising of a secondary crop more attractive to farmers than the raising of a secondary crop of onions or kale.

It means also over-all cooperative management policies among wildlife, agricultural and private enterprise groups on the natural units of nature's great green world — by watersheds, and river systems.

These and many other achievements of science, each in its way as much a triumph as unlocking of the atom, will be — and must be — attained within a generation or two. They must be, because the most important management problem of the natural scientists is not, in the final analysis, a fish or a pheasant and its respective recreational value, but man himself. Thus what lies ahead is formulation of a land ethic, a set of principles for behavior in a community broadened to include all life. If the immense problems of using the land and water resource remain unanswered, the summing up of failure will not be within the province of ecology.

It will, instead, be an addition to the lists of archaeology of peoples who were unable to cope with their environment, and destroyed themselves.

Fights To Hold Boston Post As Goaltender

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON (AP) — While rookie Norm Defelice fights to hold major league status as Boston's goaltender, the Bruins have left the door ajar for his nerve-shattered predecessor, Terry Sawchuk, to return to hockey.

Defelice, called up from Hershey on short notice because Sawchuk said he was quitting, turned in 34 saves Thursday night as the Bruins tied Detroit 2-2.

The 23-year-old youngster who had won seven of his last eight games in the Hershey nets settled down after a rocky first period when the Red Wings' Bill Dineen scored on a hip-high 20 foot shot Defelice never saw.

In the third period Ted Lindsay tipped in a long Gordie Howe shot to tie the game but it was the kind of a play which is almost unstopable.

Sawchuk departed earlier in the 'lay by train for his Milford, Conn., home saying he had quit because he was tired of being in the game for good because of nerves. Earlier in the season Defelice filled in for Sawchuk when he was bedded with mononucleosis (blood disease).

Though Sawchuk was suspended by the Bruins following his failure to attend Tuesday practice, which under hockey law could be a lifetime ban — general manager Lynn Patrick says Sawchuk still may return.

If Terry comes back to us and says he has made a mistake and is sorry, we'll take him back. He is human and so are we," Patrick said.

Coach Milt Schmidt said Sawchuk told him he was leaving the game because of his nerves whereas he first had said he was quitting because "I'm fed up."

Schmidt said Sawchuk, still considered by many as the best goalie in professional hockey and three-time winner of the coveted Vezina Trophy, stuck to his decision.

Jones, who lost to Gene Fullmer in a close fight last April, will be facing Hardy Smallwood of Brooklyn in tonight's 10-rounder.

Jones wants another crack at Fullmer, who took the middleweight championship from Sugar Ray Robinson some nine months after his fight with Jones in Cleveland.

Jones, of Yonkers, N.Y., is a heavy favorite to whip Smallwood. The Brooklyn boxer has lost four in a row and has an 18-2 record. Jones is 41-17-3.

That golfer was Mickey Wright. The reason she stood out was a record penalty of 24 strokes assessed when she called herself for carrying an extra club.

The tall, pleasant young lady from San Diego, who won the Sea Island Tournament Sunday, thus found herself almost out of sight with a 104 instead of being in the running for a second straight victory, as had been expected.

The penalty amounted to two strokes for each of the 12 holes Miss Wright played before she caught the error. Her score of 40-40 compared to par 36-37-73 over 6,066-yard Palma Ceia course.

Miss Crocker toured the tricky layout in 37-45-72.

Three former winners, defending champion Betsy Rawls, Patty Berg and Louise Suggs tied with Gloria Armstrong of Oakland, Calif., for second at 75.

It will, instead, be an addition to the lists of archaeology of peoples who were unable to cope with their environment, and destroyed themselves.

Carries Extra Club, Golfer Is Penalized

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Fay Crocker, first round leader in the $5,000 Tampa Women's Open Golf Tournament, had to share the spotlight with a golfer who took 32 strokes more than she did Thursday.

That golfer was Mickey Wright. The reason she stood out was a record penalty of 24 strokes assessed when she called herself for carrying an extra club.

Says Recession Won't Bring Tax Cuts, Federal Spending

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—One pet theory widely held by businessmen—that the government will "do something" to halt any incipient recession—has been jolted by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. It could start a first class hassle—both in the political and business worlds.

By "do something" businessmen mean that the government is supposed to be ready, when a downturn in business starts, to ease up on credit, cut taxes, and turn to pump priming by stepping up its own spending and by operating at a deficit, thus making money cheap and plentiful.

Some businessmen have questioned all along how effective such measures would be in restoring good times. They point out that if people don't feel they should spend, just making credit available won't make much difference. But most businessmen feel that if the government steps up its own spending that would help business by taking up the slack when private spending falls off.

Secretary Humphrey thinks the disadvantages of such a course outweigh the gains. As he puts it, we cannot "spend ourselves rich."

Swindlers Prey On Old Folks With 'Junk Mail' Gimmicks

By KENNETH GILMORE

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—America's silver haired citizens are falling prey to swindlers and rackets of increasing proportions across the country.

Anxious for part time work and a small bit of respect, old folks are being suckered by a flood of "come-on ads" that promise quick and sure prosperity.

Before the victims know it, follow-up salesmen fast-talk them out of their life savings, say officials here at the Post Office Department. The lifeblood of the widespread rackets is use of the federal mail service.

The swindlers are slippery, however, and for every one that postal inspectors are able to nail down and sentence, about 10 are on the loose.

HERE FROM THE FILES of the Post Office Department is a typical example of how an elderly couple was mercilessly bilked.

Mrs. Jones — this case is still open so her real name cannot be revealed—went to Colorado with her ailing and aged husband for the improvement of his health.

Shortly after arriving, Mr. Jones answered by mail an ad offering an exclusive razor blade vending machine dealership in the area of his home in Oklahoma.

The ad said in part: "The company will supervise your operations and extend financial assistance to full time if desired. Increasing income starts immediately. No selling as business is set up for you. We secure locations and install units."

EXPLAINED MRS. JONES in a recent letter to the Federal Bureau of Investigation which was turned over to the postal investigators: "We had just learned that my husband had Hodgkins Disease, cancer of the lymph glands, and not knowing how long he would live, he thought perhaps he might be able to get into something that I might continue to do after he was gone."

Soon a salesman from the company contacted the couple and smooth-talked them into writing a $500 downpayment check for the vending machine. He convinced them they would be able to make a handsome profit.

Several months later, after they had returned home to Oklahoma, a representative of the company was in their town, but he refused to have anything to do with them. They have heard nothing more since then.

"Because of my husband's health, his being unable to work full time, and medical expenses, we are desperately in need of money," Mrs. Jones wrote the FBI. "We have been so upset over this deal that it has been hard to do anything about it."

POSTAL INVESTIGATORS are now looking into this case, but it's a tragically familiar story as far as they are concerned.

"There's no way of getting an exact estimate," says an official, "but schemes like this are taking millions of dollars a year from the pockets of the aged and disabled. Most people do not realize that these types of swindlers can be prosecuted because they make fraudulent use of the mail," he adds.

All varieties of phony part-time work and work-at-home gimmicks are advertised in publications today, and they all promise the moon in the way of money. Most common are offers of vending machines that dispense gum balls, nuts, candy bars, coffee, fruit juice, sanitary tissues and other products.

When the machines are delivered, if they are at all, they never work as guaranteed and turn over a negligible profit — often as little as 25 cents a week.

AFTER INTENSIVE investigation the Post Office Department recently wrapped up a case against an outfit called the National Advance Vending Co.

Seven defendants were sentenced from one to five years each. Operating their vicious racket since 1948, these clever confidence men filched three million dollars from their victims.

Despite this and other prosecutions, postal officials are worried because these rackets are still going full bloom.

"They're increasing along with the ratio of older people and widows interested in part-time employment," explains an expert. "Unless old folks wise up, there's no telling where it will end."

Brightest star in the fine car field

Once again Lincoln is a stunning success! And it's easy to see why. You see it in the youthful styling, with its distinguished Quadra-Lite Grille, and its long low silhouette that ends in the sudden outward thrust of canted rear blades. You feel it in the incomparable way in which the most powerful engine in Lincoln history is tamed into purring obedience by new fast-acting Turbodriven. You sense it in Lincoln's elegant interior décor—and in the special Lincoln luxury that provides a vibrationless Hydro-Cushioned Ride. But that's not all! Lincoln offers a matchless array of power features that includes a 6-way power seat that tilts to your most comfortable position, doors that lock and unlock electrically, even power-operated ventilation windows! As you'll agree when you see Lincoln at our showroom, this fastest growing fine car is destined to outshine all the rest, and to increase its reputation as being unmistakably the finest in the fine car field.
